

COURT DIVIDED AS TO OPINIONPECULIAR OCCURRENCE IN FIND-INGS OF THE SUPREME COURT
THIS MORNING.OTHER CASES DECIDEDNo Opinion in the Baneroff Matter Handed Down Although It Was Expected.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—A unique situation arose today in the supreme court in case of Zuhrling vs. Mengelberg, in which the former decision of the court affirming the judgment of the lower tribunal was upheld on the rehearing. Chief Justice Winslow and Justices Barnes and Vinge held that the former decision was correct, while Justices Marshall, Stebbins and Kerkwin were of the opposite opinion. This constituted a tie, the justice Timlin, being of the counsel in the case, took no part, and this situation resulted in an affirmance.

In the case of C. D. Jones and T. I. Laughlin, plaintiffs versus the Commercial Insurance Company, defendant, the court affirmed the decision of the lower court.

This appeal was from a verdict of the lower court which decided against the plaintiff's claim for insurance by the company of damages caused by the explosion of dynamite in a warehouse on its own premises, which explosion, in turn, was caused by fire. The company's policy excluded the insurance company from liability in case the window glass was broken "directly or indirectly" by fire. The plaintiff claimed that the damage was caused solely by concussion.

The town of Lawrence against the American Writing Paper Company was reversed.

Appeal from the verdict by which the writing paper company was held responsible for damage to a highway maintained by the town (near Depere) along the Fox river, by reason of overflow of water caused by the use of flush boards at the company's dam. The flush boards raised the level of the water, although the level at the crest of the dam was kept within the limits set by the United States government.

The Jacob Johnson Fish Co. against the Wachsmuth Lumber Company, the decision was reversed. It was an appeal from a judgment for damages of $11,000 caused by the spread of a fire from the defendant's lumber yard to the fish warehouse of the plaintiff. Appeal is on the ground of insufficient damages.

An expected appeal in the rehearing of the case of Baneroff against Secretary Frear, involving the right to the former's place on the republican ticket, was not handed down.

SUPERIOR GIRL MAY HAVE BEEN STOLENHas Been Missing for Week Past—
Her Parents Grief Stricken.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Superior, Wis., Nov. 15.—There is every fear today that Elizabeth Johnson, aged 14, has been kidnapped. The girl has been missing from her home here a week and her parents are grief-stricken. A search will be instituted at once and every effort made to find her. The girl was last seen going to school. Her habits were very home-like, which makes the disappearance all the more mysterious.

CANADIAN CLUB OF
NEW YORK TO FEASTFormer Vice President Fairbanks Will Head List of Speakers at Hotel
Astor Tonight.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Nov. 15.—With former Vice President Fairbanks heading the list of speakers, the annual banquet of the Canadian Club of New York at the Hotel Astor tonight promises to be one of the most notable functions of its kind to be given in the metropolis this winter. More than the usual amount of public interest is manifested in the affair from the fact that a movement is to be launched at the banquet for the celebration in 1914 of the completion of one hundred years of peace between Great Britain and the United States. In addition to Mr. Fairbanks the scheduled speakers include Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, former Governor of Massachusetts, Dr. J. A. Macdonald of Toronto, Hon. A. C. Dill of Nova Scotia, and Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor of Canada.

BANCROFT TO FILL
VACANT POSITIONSPosition of Second Assistant Attorney General is Still Vacant—More Election Returns.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Madison, Nov. 15.—The position of second assistant attorney general left vacant by the suicide of Frank T. Tucker of Oshkosh, will be filled by Levi H. Bancroft, following his taking the office now occupied by Attorney General Gilbert. This was decided on here today, following a conference between Gilbert and Bancroft. The appointment was deferred, it is said, for the reason the names of persons eligible for the office named by the state clerk service commission were not satisfactory to the present attorney general.

More Returns.
Complete election returns from 41 of 71 counties of the state received by the secretary of state today indicate McGovern's plurality for governor is 50,000 while Bancroft for attorney general received but 10,000. It is also indicated the proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for an increase in salary for members of the legislature from $500 to $1,000, has been defeated, 2 to 1. The amendments providing for the abolition of the decennial state census and its provision compelling the state to levy a tax for the development of water power also have been adopted.

Starts on Trip.
Governor Davidson left here today on his last tour of inspection while in office. With the state fish commission, in its private car, the governor will visit the state fish hatcheries at Wild Rose, Minocqua, Bayfield and Oshkosh within the next two days.

To Take No Action.
Deciding that the evidence did not sustain the charges, Governor Davidson today decided not to remove from office Sheriff Frank Devloy of Brown county, who was charged with grafting.

MAGNATES OF MINOR
LEAGUES IN CONFABNational Association Met at Chicago
Today—Re-Classification to Be on Basis of New Census.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Minor league baseball owners and patrons will be particularly interested in the annual meeting of the National Association of Minor Leagues, the controlling organization of all clubs outside the two big leagues, which began at the Auditorium Hotel today and will occupy the greater part of the week. At the same time the Central League and several of the other minor organizations will hold sessions. The meeting of the National Association promises to be the most important that the organization has held in several years. The subject of the re-classification of the leagues, with the 1910 census as a basis, is likely to cause some lively discussions among the magnates. If the existing rules of the association are strictly enforced several circuits will necessarily be dropped to a lower class, while others will be entitled to the higher grades. When the minor leagues were classified ten years ago, in accordance with the census of 1900, the Western League was placed in Class A, and the Three League in Class B. Now, according to the latest census figures, it is said that both organizations will be obliged to drop down a grade. Officials and club owners of both leagues, it is hardly necessary to state, will strenuously oppose any move to place them in a new classification.

A re-classification of the leagues would entitle the Texas League to advance from Class C to B, while the New York, New England and Connecticut leagues could make the Class A limit. It is understood, however, that the three last-named are content with their present status.

BELL PHONE CO. TO LAY CONDUIT

UNDER IRON-CLAD CONTRACT TO
"RESTORE THE STREETS."

CITY COUNCIL'S SESSION

Last Evening Was A Busy One, As Predicted—New Frame Buildings Within Fire Limits Received Attention.

After a lengthy star-chamber conference with M. G. Jeffers, attorney for the Wisconsin Telephone Co., the common council last evening by unanimous vote ratified a contract giving that corporation permission to lay an underground conduit for a cable on Milwaukee street from Wisconsin street to a point 113 feet west of Franklin street, on bluff street from North First to Court street; on Main street from North First to Court street; and on Franklin street from Wall to Pleasant street. By the terms of the agreement the company is to conduct its operations with all possible celerity, fully and completely restore the streets and repair any defects that may appear along the line of the trenches within two years; hold the city harmless of any costs and claims for damages which may arise from the prosecution of said work; and move wires in a satisfactory fashion at its own expense, in event the bridges are repaired or rebuilt. Contrary to expectations, no mention was made in upon meeting of the result of the effort to force both telephone and Postal Telegraph companies to raise all their wires to forty feet in the business district as the ordinance requires. The inference is that some satisfactory understanding has been reached.

Fire-Limit Indulgences.

On motion of Chairman Lowell of the fire and water committee the filled Lumber Co.'s petition for permission to build a large frame shop with drop roof and make other alterations in the yard. On motion of Alderman Dulin, Archie Nowell was granted special permission to his lunch wagon on the west side of Academy street subject to the further order of the council and the city at any time was directed to discontinue action against him in municipal court for violation of the fire-limit building ordinance. Charles H. Carpenter, proprietor of the Railroad hotel, was granted permission to retain the cow shed built in the rear of his premises on condition that he cover it with asbestos and corrugated iron within two weeks. But the council adopted resolutions declaring that the buildings of the Greeks on lots 5 and 6 and 3 and 4, Duff's subdivision of lot 177, on West Milwaukee street, are nuisances; that they have been constructed, remodeled and enlarged without permission of the common council or chief engineer; and direct the city marshal, in event said nuisances are not abated, to raise the buildings to the ground and charge the expenses to the owners. This will be the first carpenter and masonry work the head of the police department has been called upon to perform. Alderman Brown remonstrated against this harsh attitude toward these exiles from the Aegean while special favors were being granted to ordinance-violators who spoke more English, but his remonstrance was of no avail. There was a tie vote on Ald. Hall's order granting permission to A. E. Baum to move a shed from the intersection of Linn and Center streets to Western avenue and thence westward to Center avenue and south on Center avenue, and the motion was declared lost. Ald. Sheridan inquired to know what his colleague was doing with Fourth Ward buildings and whether this one was headed—Deloit? Mayor Carlo observed that it was evidently expected to gravitate along "that same blasted Center avenue which has caused so much trouble." (It may be remarked in passing that Judge Grimm's Center avenue decision and the problem of assigning fifty per cent of the expenditures which he "puts up to" the City Fathers received no attention last evening.)

Street Improvements.

The report of the street assessment committee recommending acceptance of the paving work on South Main street was adopted. The total cost of the work was $14,584.27, of which amount $4,700.35 will eventually be paid from the Third ward fund and $9,883.92 on certificates of special assessment. The ward fund made a partial payment of $2,000 on Oct. 31 and an order directing the payment of $1,000 more was passed last evening. Reports regarding property owners who do or do not intend to pay at once were submitted and to cover the amount due from the latter an issue of $3,281.58 was authorized. At the instance of the committee on sewers, the street assessment committee's recommendation that the tax to be raised in each district be increased from one-quarter of a mill to one mill on the dollar was adopted.

Other Matters of Finance.

At the request of the board of education the mayor was directed to borrow $5,500 and place the same to the credit of the school fund. The finance committee's report on bills was adopted and the clerk was directed to draw orders on the treasurer for sums ranging between $4 and $7.50 in favor of the election clerks and inspectors; for $228.50 due William Hughes for hay; and for $14 payable to E. J. Howard for the use of an election booth. The city treasurer's report for October was accepted and placed on file.

Departmental Reports.

Chief Appleby's report for the police department was received and placed on file. The board of education's report showed that orders totaling $5,937.21 had been drawn during the month of October, according to the municipal court report, fees, fines, and penalties totaling $127.10 were collected during the month of October. Health Commissioner Richards' special report on vaults was adopted and the $78 costs taxed against property owners.

Macellaneous Business.

James W. Reed was granted permission to transfer his saloon license at 301 West Milwaukee St. to the Cronk Brewing Co. F. O. Ambrose was granted a plumber's license to excavate in the streets. The street commissioner was directed to repair Garfield avenue from Oakland avenue to Jackson St. by shaping the surface with a road grader and rolling the same with the steam roller; and serve notices on the owner of lot 2, block 15, original plat, to repair the sidewalk in front of said property on South Third street. Instructions were given the committee on public buildings to have the plaster repainted at the Spring Brook fire station and the roof on the voting booth in the fifth ward mended. The council adjourned to meet next Monday evening. All the aldermen were present at the session.

The Sacred Goose.

In Egypt the goose was the emblem of Seth, father to Osiris. A precious figure of it is extant inscribed "The Good Goose Greatly Beloved." It was the national flag of Burma and of Kandy, Ceylon. Wherever Buddhism rules the goose is venerated. Therefore it is a leading motif in the art of Japan and a symbol of peace and happiness in China. Figures of geese are as indispensable at a Chinese wedding as is bride cake with us. In both countries, as also in Burma and Kandy, weights are made in the shape of a goose as a token of good faith, though the connection is not obvious. But in ancient Egypt the same custom ruled, and Layard found goose weights among his first discoveries at Nineveh. A row of gigantic geese surrounds the great Buddhist temple at Annapoorna. The devout cherish a fond fancy that all geese perform an aerial pilgrimage to the holiest of lakes in the Himalayas every year, transporting the sins of the neighborhood, returning with a new stock of inspiration for the encouragement of local piety.

When the Play Falls.

"Patiently, morning, noon, night, sometimes far into the dawn, the rehearsals go on, first the steps, then the music, then the words, then the situations with principals and stars in rehearsal and always the business, the exciting command, the sharp rebuke, the tireless round.

"How would you like to rehearse day and night, seven weeks, without pay, and find yourself out of a job after the first night?

"Wouldn't you rather read of a glorious triumph and see the managers and authors and composers rake in the shekels, the golden, glittering shekels, even though they grew fat on them, for the sake of the people who had rehearsed seven weeks without pay?

"The tragedy of failure is back in the land of make believe, down in the crowded dressing room, down where the girls huddle together and tremble, down where one weeps silently and dries her eyes on the skirt of a useless costume."—Smith's Magazine.

Poor Richard's Almanac.

Dr. Franklin himself in one of the last numbers of the almanac gathered together all the best sayings of Poor Richard, which for twenty-five years had amused and edified the country. These sayings are in constant use at this day. For example, "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise;" "Drive thy business—let it not drive thee;" "Help hands, for I have no hands;" "No gain without pains;" "Constant dropping wears away stones;" "Three removes are as bad as a fire;" "He that by the plow would thrive must himself sit at the plow;" "A fat kitchen makes a lean wife;" "Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other." It was such homely maxims as these inserted in all the little raps of the almanac that made it so popular. Franklin said he sometimes sold 10,000 copies in a year, a wonderful sale for that day. The first number of Poor Richard's Almanac appeared in 1732.

Not Well to Butt In.

"After the crash," imparted the first hospital surgeon to the second, "I ran over to where it lay on the pavement, and when I raked it up I saw at once that its ribs were smashed, while a gaping hole was torn in its—"

"Pardon me, doctor," broke in the medical student, who had caught these words as he was about to pass by into the consumptive ward, "but if you have no objections I'd like to take a few notes on that accident case." He pulled his notebook from his pocket. "Was the case a child?"

"No," the surgeon informed him to his embarrassment. "I was speaking of my umbrella."—Judge.

COUNTY FATHERS ARE IN SESSION

county fathers
NOVEMBER MEETING CALLED TO ORDER THIS AFTERNOON.

S. S. JONES HAS RESIGNED

His Seat and Will Be Candidate Against H. L. Skavlem for Highway Commissioner—Several Officers Re-elected.

Chairman J. A. Paul's gavel dropped for the opening of the November session of the county board of supervisors at 2:20 this afternoon. S. S. Jones of Clinton and W. E. Bloomer failed to respond to roll call and communications read by the clerk showed that Mr. Jones had resigned as town chairman on Saturday, Nov. 12, and that K. K. Newhouse had been appointed to fill the vacancy; and that P. F. McJee had been sent to represent the town of Janesville in place of Mr. Shoemaker, who is ill.

The substitutions were approved. Mr. Newhouse was appointed to fill Mr. Jones' place on committee 6, with Chas. E. Moore, chairman, and also on committee 7; and Mr. McJee was assigned to committee 4, with J. L. Bear as chairman.

Meet Again January 5.
A motion by L. E. Gettle that when the board adjourns it be to meet again January 5, 1911, at 10:30 in the morning was carried.

On motion of Simon Smith the board proceeded to elect a janitor. L. M. Nelson was the only nominee and the clerk was instructed to cast the ballot.

$75,000 on Highways.

M. P. Richardson made an inquiry regarding a report of the highway commissioner that had been filed with the clerk. County Clerk Leo said that as he understood it this report had been left for committee 6 and was not to be read at this meeting. Mr. Richardson said that inasmuch as about $75,000 had been expended by that officer during the past three years and the board was about to elect his successor he thought it highly important that all particulars regarding that department be made known. On his motion the matter was made a special order of business for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Livemore New Trustee.

The board proceeded to the election of a trustee of the insane asylum to succeed George Barker whose term had expired. Simon Smith placed the name of P. P. Livemore of Beloit before the board. In an eloquent nominating speech and L. E. Gettle seconded it. Supervisor Bear nominated Mr. Barker to succeed himself and M. P. Richardson seconded the nomination. Mr. Livemore received 27 votes to 12 for Mr. Barker on the informal ballot and the informal ballot was made formal.

Poormaster Gets Raise.

Stating that the poormasters who worked 365 days and a good many nights in the year were the poorest paid officers in Rock county, Supervisor Bear offered a resolution fixing the salary of the one in District No. 1, which includes the northern part of the county, at $500, an increase of $50. The resolution carried. Supervisors Gettle and Sherman voting "No." Asn Anderson had no opposition for the office and the secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous ballot for him.

To Cut Highway Commissioner?

Supervisor Bear alluded to the highway commissioner as the highest paid officer in the county considering the amount of actual work he did and offered a resolution that hereafter, in lieu of $1,200 a year for six months' effort, he receive $450 a day for each day of actual work. Supervisor Tullar asked if this was to include expenses and upon being informed that it was, offered an amendment providing that the county bear all expenses. Supervisor Gettle moved that the whole matter be made a special order of business for tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

In Session Until Friday.

The board at three o'clock had still to elect a supervisor of assessments to succeed Frank P. Starr. It was thought that Mr. Starr would have no opposition for reelection. Supt. David Barless of the county farm was to read his annual report. The board had not yet been invited to inspect and take dinner at the institution. If this is done the session will probably last over Friday.

Training School Item.

It is understood that Green county has a $400 bill against Rock county for educating its students in training schools. The board some years ago considered and rejected the proposition of establishing training schools in this county and now it appears that it is going to have to pay just the same.

OBITUARY

Jennie Keesey.
Miss Jennie Keesey, aged 17, died at half past two o'clock this afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. Julia Keesey, 113 Lincoln street. Miss Keesey was a graduate of the class of 1910 and was popular with her classmates and schoolmates. She leaves to mourn her loss her mother and two sisters, Mabel and Inez Keesey, both of this city. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

Mrs. John Tuckwood.
Mrs. John Tuckwood, a former resident of Janesville, died this morning at eight o'clock at her home in Chicago. Until about two years ago, she resided in this city and has a large circle of friends here. A husband, two daughters, Mrs. William Woodstock and Edith Tuckwood, and son, Frank, survive her. The remains will be brought to this city for burial. The arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

True Shoe Economy For Men

The saddest part of some shoe economy is—that the shoes don't wear. The dollar saved—puts the saver "on his uppers," just that much sooner. We believe in moderate price and real value—but after all the quality's the thing. Just try one pair of our shoes for men at $3.50 to $5.00—worth every penny of the price. Their purchase means the practice of true economy.

Shoes Repaired Quickly

Quickness is one of the advantages of our shoe shop. Repairing shoes satisfactorily is the main point of vantage—and it does not cost much either. Shoes repaired while you wait.

THE CONSERVATIVE PEOPLE.

"There is food for thought in the manner in which candidates who are believed to be conservative prevailed on Tuesday last over those of a different type. For some reason the average politician usually attaches more importance to the views of a few extremists than to the great body of his constituents.

"The explanation is probably found in the fact that the minority are active and noisy, while the great majority of contented citizens do not raise their voices to proclaim their views. Substantially on every test which has been made before the American people the radical element has been voted down and the conservative element has prevailed.

"This was the case when the great sweep of paper money sentiment in 1874 and 1878 seemed to threaten the annihilation of the republican party in the west. The party passed the specie resumption act and retained the confidence of the people. It was the same with the great Bryan raid against financial stability. It made an appalling amount of noise, but it failed.

"After the passage of the gold standard law of 1900, many states returned to the republican column; whereas both parties had strong leanings to free silver before 1896. It was the same conservative sentiment which elected President Taft in 1908, in the belief that his policies would be more sane and tranquillizing than those of his opponent."

This from a financial journal, sizes up the situation correctly. The people are the great balance wheel between national extremes of whatever nature, and no party is ever great enough to successfully defy public sentiment.

The republican party had become top-heavy and arrogant through a long era of prosperity, and was entitled to the drubbing which it received, but the endorsement given the democratic party is by no means a token of confidence. It remains for that party to make good.

hand." It is up to party leaders to shape future destiny. The people vote but the rank and file are not politicians.

WHAT IS A TAX DODGER?

The common council acted wisely last evening in deciding to take time to investigate the merits of the proposed scheme to collect alleged back taxes, and public sentiment will approve the conservative action of Mayor Carlo in dealing with the question.

Every taxpayer, whether small or large, imagines that his taxes are too high, and when his money is exchanged for a tax receipt he never celebrates the event by going out to treat his friends. But the average taxpayer is honest and it is a serious proposition to accuse him of perjury in listing his property for taxation.

A large block of Janesville money is invested away from home, but the most of it represents tangible property, subject to taxation in the several states where located.

Money in banks, whether on deposit or in safety vaults, is idle money, and while it represents property, does not contribute very largely to tax receipts.

Real estate mortgages have long been the subject of discussion and while have been passed in Wisconsin and several other states, with a view to lifting them for taxation, these laws have usually been dead letters because impracticable.

One of the arguments advanced against enforcement, is that a mortgage tax generally enforced, would result in a higher rate of interest to the man in debt and the least able to pay. Another that it was double taxation, as real estate is usually assessed at somewhere near its value regardless of the equity that the holder represents.

Another that many of these mortgages are owned by people in moderate circumstances, whose income from the small investment is barely sufficient to take care of them.

There may be "tax dodgers" in Janesville but there ought to be a way to find them without employing outside talent, and inflicting hardship on a lot of innocent people.

HOW'S YOUR BUSINESS.

Here's the report of a conversation which occurred down in Connecticut the other day:

"How's your business these days?"

"Well, I tell you I don't like this interference by congress with the great railroad interests."

"I know, but what I asked you was how your own business was."

"Why, look at the stock market. Did you ever see values dwindle away as they have been doing lately?"

"Yes, but that wasn't what I asked about. It was your own business that I wanted to know of."

"I tell you what. The prospect is far from reassuring. The talk of the railroad people, all the gossip that comes out of the Wall Street offices, everything one hears is discouraging."

"But you haven't answered my question yet. How about your business for 1910? Has it been up to the average and met your expectations?"

"Oh, as to that, so far this is the biggest year we ever had. I've got nothing to complain of myself. Things have been coming my way, all right, up to the present time. But, confound this interference with the railroads; it's knocking business sky-high."

Ever hear anything like it in the west? Most assuredly, because it expresses a pessimistic sentiment, which prevails to greater or less extent throughout the country, yet in spite of political changes and dire forebodings the business of the nation goes along with old time regularity.

Market reports today show that corn is off twelve cents per bushel. This means cheaper bacon and cheap beef, and demonstrates that at least one cereal has shaken off the shackles of the villainous tariff.

If a democratic victory has these significant results twelve months before the party has any voice in national legislation, corn ought to be cheap enough to burn when the party is in full swing.

Of course business is good and the outlook promising, for as wages go up and the necessities of life come down everybody will grow fat but the farmer.

Someone suggested, a time ago, that the prosperity of the country depended upon the prosperity of agriculture, but that was before the days of tariff agitation.

What do people want now is good incomes with ten cent corn and bacon and the democratic party is expected to supply the want. The party made good so far as the corn and bacon was concerned, 18 years ago, and the walking was so good that people became infatuated with pedestrianism, and gave but little thought to work and wages. The times are certainly good and with flattering prospects ahead everybody should be happy.

Woodrow Wilson, the democratic governor-elect of New Jersey, demonstrated during his campaign that he is an orator of great ability. His speeches, which were off-hand, and many of them with no time for preparation, were marvels of simplicity and forcefulness, and combined with a magnetic presence which hypnotized a disgruntled audience to enthusiastic supporters, he carried the state by storm. Wilson will bear watching, as he is already slated for national leadership.

Found Buried Treasures.

A navy at Fontenoy-sous-Hols last week struck with his pick a hard substance which, on investigation, proved to be a vase containing 10 franc and 5 franc pieces. The other day two more vases were dug up by another navy, and in them was found money amounting to no less than $29,000.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TO A YOUNG GIRL.

My Dear Girl—Not long ago I made a visit to a certain state reformatory. While there I met a young woman whom I had known as a young girl.

"If I had only believed my parents and taken their advice I would not be here. I was led to believe by the young men with whom I associated that my parents were old fogies and undue sticklers for propriety. If I had only trusted my parents!"

My dear—

Because of what that young woman said to me and because of my observation of many years I want to say—

As between some young fellow and those who love you most do not hesitate.

Suppose a young man says to you: "Let's go to the show. But say nothing about it to your parents. Tell them we are going to the neighbors. We can go to the neighbors all right and then go to the theater."

Tell him "No!"

And afterward have as little to do with him as possible.

The young man who tries to get you to deceive the parents who have loved and cared for you since you were a baby is not the sort of man you can afford to trust.

If he cares anything for you at all he will respect your parents and will never think of suggesting a deception.

Remember this:

Your father and mother have lived longer in the world than you have, and they know its ways better than you do.

When they say to you, Do not do so and so, depend upon it they have a good reason.

Nobody loves you as they love you. Nobody wants you to be happy and have a good time more than they. Do not ever get it into your head that they are cruel or tyrannical.

Your parents are your best advisers. They are actuated by the motive of a great love for you. They are your best protectors. They would literally die to save you if necessary.

So I say—

Do not for a moment trust a young man who tries to lay the foundation for a friendship by leading you to deceive your best friends.

Tell him "No!"

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1903, by George Matthews Adams.)

Poor Doc Crippen, in his cell, shorn of every earthly hope, waits to bid the world farewell, waits the scaffold and the rope.

DOC CRIPPEN British justice is severe, and his cogwheels seldom slip; when it comes a man it's queer if he'll dodge the gallows trip. Old Doc Crippen sits alone, thinking of the gallows-tree, of the chains that creak and groan, and his face is sad to see, as he marks the drizzling time.

"Had I, south my native skies, been convicted of this crime, I would not be plunged in woe; I'd be smoking free cigars, and the girls would come and throw handsome nosegays through the bars. And I would not need to fear that the end of things was close; hiring lawyers by the year, I could dodge the hempen noose, I could spend each passing hour in a near approach to sleep, planning for a speaking tour when my lawyers got me free. Oh, my friends," perhaps he moans, "when you kill your wives, ho ho ho, that you will not hide their bones in this blooming British clay! For the British judges don't see the beauty of your joke, and the British juries won't do a thing but make you choke!"

Cats Drive Off Snakes.

For many years I have been running a cattle station in Queensland, where snakes are tolerably numerous. At the head station we have always kept up a standing army of from fifteen to twenty cats, and have been practically free from the presence of snakes about the buildings and yards.

That this was owing to the presence of our cats I have no doubt whatever. They were always on the lookout, and I have often seen members of our feline bodyguard growling over dead or dying snakes and have more than once witnessed savage encounters between them and their victims. On the other hand, martyrs to their duty were from time to time found dead in the morning with all the evidence of a fight and their defeat in the shape of snakebites on their bodies.—Spectator.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

DON'T knock. You won't hurt the other fellow, but will get yourself the reputation of being a grouch.

Don't worry lest your demise cause a deep void. The world will forget you before it stops to do anything else.

The farmer knows just how to run a grocery store, and the business man looks forward eagerly to the time when he shall quit business and gather in shekels from that farm of his dreams.

Today we use a motorboat on the river of life where our fathers used a raft.

The small boy thinks it is an ill wind that shakes down no hickory nuts.

The woman who cleans garments with gasoline in a room with lighted gas doesn't carry with her long enough to wear the renovated things.

Nothing injures the memory of a millionaire like being called to the witness stand.

Why is it that a man on a fishing trip will call good fare that is served to him at home, would cause him to raise the roof six inches.

Waste not. Your change on ball games and you will want not for golf to accompany you to the soda fountain.

Didn't Anney Her.

"He proposed to me again last night."

"That makes the third time, doesn't it?"

"No; the fourth."

"And you turned him down again, I suppose."

"Cold."

"The idiot! How long do you suppose he will keep this up?"

"He isn't any more idiot than you are or as much either, for that matter, and he has my permission to keep it up as long as he wants to."

Seasonable.

Some artist, believing me, in Autumn, in colors also depict her brush, and reckless as dangers of whitewash, she throws the paint on with a rush. The leaves that were yesterday verdant grow red as the head of a guy who hears that the maiden is fooling who said she'd be his by and by.

His Enthusiasm.

"I do love enthusiastic people."

"Do you?"

"Yes, don't you?"

"The most enthusiastic person I know is one I have little use for."

"Why?"

"Well, he is a bill collector."

Of Course.

"Why do you go out on such a stormy day, my dear?"

"Why?"

"Yes."

"Because I can't make the day be fair."

Not at All.

"Women always fool themselves."

"They do?"

"Yes."

"Well, then is when they don't mind being fooled?"

But the Thing in Summer.

"I think it is horrid."

"What?"

"That tan is so unbecoming in autumn."

The Contrasts.

An auto is a goodly sight. As smoothly it goes gliding. And motoring is quite a treat. For those who care for riding. But when it turns a somersault. Breaks bones and cuts up money. And mashes landscapes right and left. It isn't quite so funny.

To see an auto climb a hill. A sight is worth beholding. The little engine chugs along. And does a deal of scolding. But when it tries to climb a tree. And on the leaves goes grazing. When gasoline should be its food. The sight is more hair raising.

To fear old forty miles or more. Is just about a minute. Is met and drink and exercise. To persons seated in it. But when a man is much in haste. And his machine tries halting. He wishes then the humble chap. Who takes his out in walking.

A solace for the old and young. A comfort for the lazy. And joy unspeakable, sublime. For persons plumb aped crazy. All these and more the auto is. The snail and race horse slaming. But those who love it most admit. It needs a lot of taming.

Many Fall to Pass.

Only twenty of every hundred candidates for the London police force are successful in passing the entrance examination.

A Light Hint.
Ho—"Wouldn't you rather live in these days of electricity than in your father's time, for instance? Think of what primitive times they must have been when people used candles." She (wearily)—"Oh, I don't know that candles were such primitive things. They knew enough to go out sometimes."

Why Gold Bricks Sell.
"Do man dat answers a gold brick circular," said Uncle Eben, "makes do old mistake. Instead o' tellin' Satan to git behind 'im, he thinks he kin git ahead o' Satan."

Discovered.
Little Violet was one day examining a beehive which was now to her. Being disturbed the bees came out of their hives and one of them stung her. Tears came into her eyes, but she quickly dried them and cried triumphantly: "Now I know who takes the needles out of mamma's cushion."—De Lineator.

SOLD HER DIAMOND RING TO WED MAN

Dellah Hamerly, Arrested With Charles Thornbloom Yesterday, Parted With Jewel to Marry Him.

Selling her diamond ring to raise funds to secure a marriage license and launch them on the matrimonial sea, Dellah Hamerly, arrested with Charles Thornbloom yesterday, and saved only from serving a jail sentence by friends who paid her fine, was married to Thornbloom at about half past three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The couple secured a special permit from Judge Charles H. Lange, who tied the knot, left town shortly afterward. The sale of the ring netted the woman thirty dollars. Thornbloom did not have a son in his pockets and, as stated in the license, had no trade or occupation. He told the authorities yesterday that he had been a back-driver in Moline, Ill., his home. He is thirty-two years of age and the woman thirty-one. She gave her home as in Rock Island and stated that she had been divorced from a former husband over one year.

FIBYNE TO RACE AGAINST OLDER GETZ ON WEDNESDAY

Speediest Roller Racers of Janesville and Rockford to be Matched Against Each Other.

Fibyne, winner of last Wednesday evening's race at the West Side roller rink, Janesville's champion, will be given a chance to show his true mettle tomorrow night in a race on the local floor against Getz of Rockford, an older brother of Young Getz, who Fibyne defeated last Wednesday. Getz has been unbeaten in the Forest City and has raced with some speedy skaters and is a formidable opponent for Fibyne. This contest will determine much for Fibyne, as, if he is victorious, Manager Connors will enter him in the races at Riverview in Milwaukee for the mile events. The race promises to be a spectacle of much interest. The sight of the two racers, clad in natty racing suits, speed about the course, is indeed thrilling.

Home Course In Health Culture

VIII.—Exercise In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

FOR centuries the alchemists sought an elixir—a magic fluid that would restore exhausted vitality and perpetuate the activities we call life. For many years physicians and chemists, successors of the "medicine man" and alchemist, have laboriously experimented with drugs and chemicals in the hope of at least finding some combination that would give health and increased longevity to mankind. Many valuable drugs and combinations of drugs have been discovered, but it is safe to say that the greatest achievements of medical science have come not through the use of drugs, but through the employment of natural remedies whose powers were so long neglected by the mystic "medicine men" of the middle ages. It is true that diphtheria antitoxin and the wonderful promise of other remedies of a similar class are the products of the laboratory, but these are truly nature's remedies and have no relation with drug treatment. The remarkable fall in the death rate among people under thirty years of age in the past quarter century is almost wholly due to hygiene and the use of natural remedies in disease.

The power of physical training, fresh air and a little surgery to make over the lymphatic, half deformed, mouth breathing child into a splendid and useful citizen is as wonderful in its way as the powers vainly sought by the alchemists and necromancers.

Troublesome Remedies Unpopular. It is unfortunate, however, that some of these remedial measures are not so easily prescribed or taken as pills and powders.

To advise a man to take more exercise is very much like telling him to take digitalis. Exercise cannot confer its maximum benefit unless some dosage is prescribed and some system followed. But the average man wishes to be made over at once. Any process involving time, patience and effort is repugnant unless it is given a fancy name and has some mysterious thrown around it, and then vast marvelous results—while the fact last!

There is a great difference between exercising for health and exercising for muscular development. They are not necessarily identical processes. The vast, bulging muscles of the athlete may be a real burden, calling for large supplies of blood and nutriment and not contributing to harmony of movement or balance of function.

Overdevelopment spells ultimate degeneration, just as disease spells atrophy and decay.

The object we should keep in view, therefore, is moderate and sufficient exercise of the entire muscular system.

Effects of Exercise.

The circulation and respiration are chiefly affected during exercise and muscular work. There is an increased absorption of oxygen, an increased excretion of carbon dioxide and water. In other words, combustion proceeds more actively in the body, and more fuel, in the form of fat or starches or proteins, is required. All of which goes to show that, whatever man's mind or soul may be, his body is a sort of engine which can no more carry on its work without fuel than a locomotive without coal can drag a train of cars. Mind and will power alone cannot run the human engine with beef and staps and food that is not fuel any more than the most skillful engineer can run a locomotive with air in the boiler and a few shavings in the firebox.

The mechanical measure of exercise is the kilogrammeter. It has been determined (Haghton) that walking on a level surface at the rate of three miles (4.8 kilometers) per hour is equivalent to lifting one-twentieth of the weight of the body through the distance walked. To determine the amount of work performed in walking the weight of the body in kilograms is multiplied by the distance walked. The product constitutes the number of kilogram meters of work performed; 150,000 kilogram meters is considered the normal average amount of work of exercise required in a day.

Best Time For Exercise.

The ideal time for exercise is midway between meals, but few people can arrange to take it at such times. Before breakfast is a suitable time for most people, especially if the exercise is followed by a cold bath and brisk rubbing.

Some people cannot exercise before breakfast without feeling unduly fatigued, the exhaustion often lasting throughout the day. Before retiring is a safer time for such people unless they can arrange for forenoon or afternoon work.

Nervous subjects with an excitable circulation should not, as a rule, exercise before retiring.

Exercise should never be taken just after a meal, and no exercise just prior to eating should be so severe as to cause great fatigue. In either case the digestive functions are impaired, and all benefits may be neutralized.

Forms of Exercise.

Exercise should be graded according to age and condition. When there is actual disease medical advice must be sought and followed or injudicious exercise may prove extremely harmful.

In prescribing exercise a good system is that of Dr. Dudley Sargent of Harvard. In this system the various movements have been given descriptive names to facilitate memorizing them.

The following is a brief outline of the several exercises:

First.—Adoration. Standing with feet together and hands raised before the forehead, as in praying, throw the hands and forearms backward until the arms are on a level with the shoulders and forearms directed upward at right angles with arms. Repeat twenty to thirty times.

Second.—Tree sawing. Stand with feet together and arms thrust straight upward, but not rigid. Swing the upper part of the body from side to side.

Third.—Striking an anvil. Stand with feet twenty-four inches apart, arms straight out sideways, face turned to left. Keeping the arms rigidly straight, swing the right hand over the head and down on to the left hand with a snap. Swing the right arm downward and back to original position. Reverse the movement, face turned to right.

Fourth.—Swimming, breast stroke. Stand with feet twenty-four inches apart, left foot forward, weight resting on right leg, arms at right angles, held close to the side. Thrust arms forward, bend body forward and throw weight on left leg, bending at the knee. Sweep arms outward and backward to original position, imitating a swimming stroke.

Fifth.—Boxer's guard. Stand with feet twenty-four inches apart, right foot forward, weight on left leg, left arm bent and guarding neck, right arm straight downward and backward. Press forward, throwing weight on right leg, and bring right arm up to guard the neck while thrusting the left arm downward and backward. Repeat the move, springing from one foot to the other.

Sixth.—Chicken wings. Stand with feet together and thumbs in armpits. Raise both elbows while raising left knee to the waist. Return to first position and repeat, raising opposite knee. Keep up the movements alternately.

Seventh.—Signal station. Stand erect, with heels together, hands on hips. Thrust the right arm straight upward while lifting the left leg outward and upward, rigidly extended. Lower the limbs and repeat on other side.

Eighth.—Rowing. Stand facing the right, feet twenty-four inches apart, right leg forward, arms at right angles and close to sides. Bend forward, weight on right leg, with arms extended, until fingers touch the floor twelve inches in advance of right foot. Return briskly to first position as though pulling on oar. Repeat, facing left.

Ninth.—Restoration. Stand with feet together, face downward, back of hands touching. Bring hands upward, separating as they pass the face. Then describe a circle downward and upward back to first position. Repeat. Begin to inhale deeply as the arms are raised, slowly exhaling as the arms descend.

These movements should be performed from twenty to thirty times at a rate per minute that is not unduly fatiguing. Many simple movements of a similar character will prove effective if regularly and systematically carried out.

It is important to employ exercises that bring into play the abdominal and chest muscles, which encourage deep breathing and prevents the accumulation of fat around the abdomen.

Tree sawing, striking the anvil, chicken wings and signal station are especially good exercises for women and elderly people who are excessively fleshy.

Dangers of Excessive Flesh.

Superfluous fat is not only a burden, but it interferes with the normal functions of the body. It may be caused by too much food and too little exercise or merely a lack of exercise in one with a family tendency to flesh.

Life insurance statistics clearly show that individuals even slightly overweight have a higher death rate than those of average weight. This increased death rate is manifested around middle life and later.

Idealism.

It costs a man a lot to live up to his ideals. That's the reason many a man can't afford to get married.—New York Times.

TROOPS SHOOT RIOTERS; 12 KILLED, 60 WOUNDED;

Riot Occurs as Result of Political Demonstration at Leon, Nicaragua.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, Nov. 15.—Twelve persons are dead at Leon and 60 are wounded as a result of a battle between Nicaraguan soldiers and the Liberals because of a political demonstration.

The Liberals, disregarding the government's orders prohibiting their holding public meeting on the streets, gathered in a park and their leaders began delivering speeches against the government. The police attempted to disperse the crowd, but were quickly overcome. The troops were then called out and were compelled to fire many rounds into the mob before the crowd could be dispersed. The situation is critical and further trouble is anticipated.

LIVE STOCK RATES SUSPENDED.

Scheduled Advance on Illinois Central Put Over Until March 31.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The Illinois Central railroad advanced new rates on live stock were suspended until March 31 by the Interstate commerce commission. An investigation of the new schedule is to be made by the commission on the ground that the advances proposed give ground for argument that they are unreasonably high.

Southwestern Ice Manufacturers. Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 15.—The members of the Southwestern Ice Manufacturers' association were welcomed to the city today by Mayor H. M. Judd and H. H. Myers, superintendent of the government reservation, and later in the day they listened to addresses by C. J. Pope of Bunkle, La.; James E. Egan of Waco, Tex.; and H. C. Hook of Houston, Tex. Tonight the ice makers and their families will attend a reception and ball at the Arlington. W. S. Ambrose of McAlester, Okla., presides over the sessions.

Auto Driver Dies of Injuries. Savannah, Ga., Nov. 15.—W. H. Sharp of Trenton, N. J., the designer and driver of the Sharp-Arrow car, which was wrecked in the practice for the grand prize race, died here as a result of internal injuries received in the accident.

EACH MAN HIS OWN EMBALMER.

New Invention an Improvement on Mummy Process.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 15.—An embalming fluid which will preserve the human body tone of thousands of years without producing the dried appearance of mummies has been invented by Homer J. Parr, a graduate in pharmacy of the University of Pittsburg. With the new preservative every man can become almost literally his own embalmer. Parr's experiments have been confined to rats and in his laboratory he has a cage of five rodents in various stages of mummification.

The embalming preparation is administered as food and all the functions of the nervous and tissues are destroyed gradually. When death comes decomposition does not set in and the rat is solidified.

PREDICTS WAR WITH JAPANESE

Henry H. Rogers Declares, United States Will Be Taken Napping.

New York, Nov. 15.—"High military officers in European countries say that the United States and Japan will come to war within a few years; that America will be beaten. The Japs, these men told me, are going to catch us unawares, or, in other words, open fire before the completion of the Panama canal." Henry H. Rogers, son of the late Standard Oil magnate, sent out this warning upon his arrival from a tour of Germany, England, France, Holland and Italy. Mr. Rogers is a staff officer of the First brigade of the New York National Guard.

Illinois Club Women Meet.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 15.—The sixteenth annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs opened here today with the president, Mrs. Francis D. Everett of Highland Park, in the chair. An interesting program covering four days has been prepared.

PARIS FLOOD IS STATIONARY.

Seine River Ceases to Rise—Danger Seems to Be Over.

Paris, Nov. 15.—The swollen Seine, which has flooded some of the lower parts of the city and threatened great damage, is stationary.

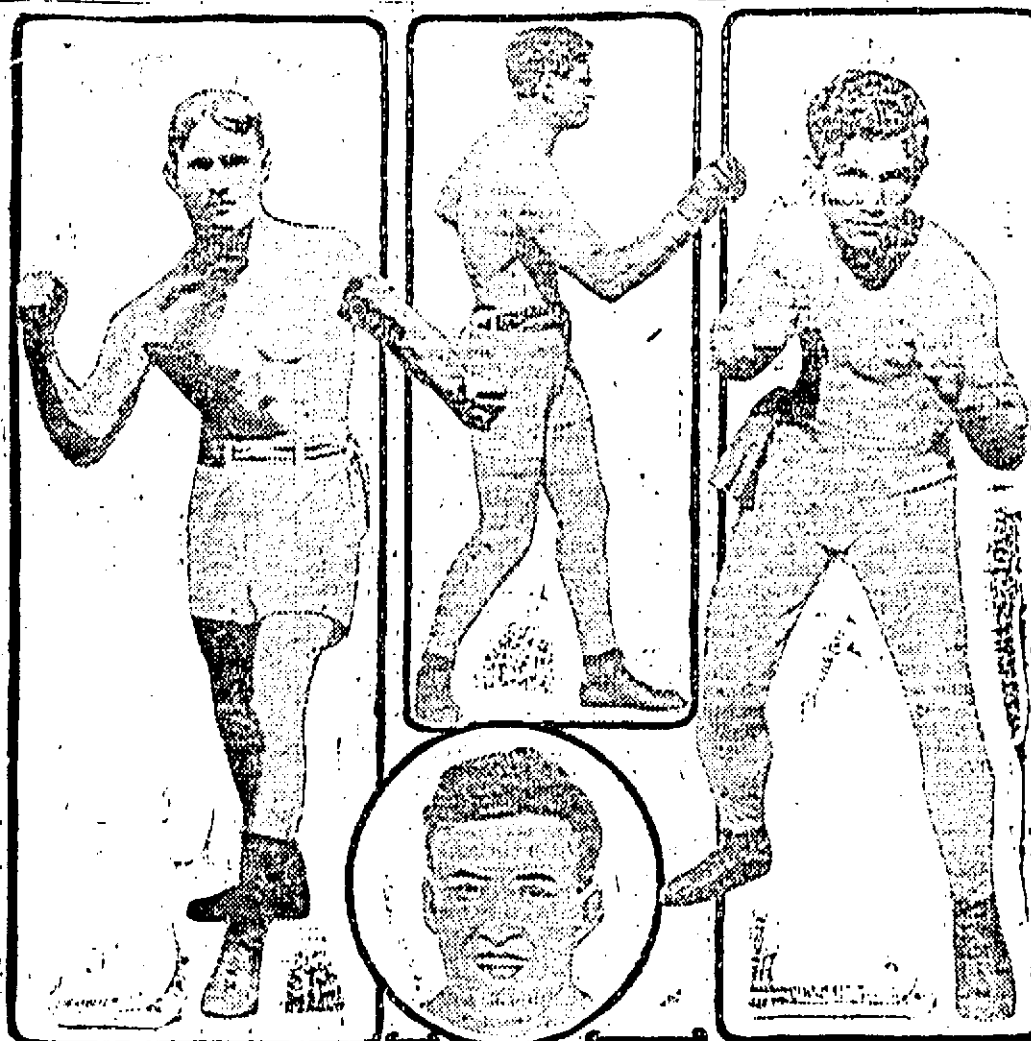

At a conference between Premier Briand and the special foundation commission it was decided to rush the work of deepening the river between Suresnes and Nogent and the construction of the canal for diverting the waters in times of flood.

Waterson Enters Plea.

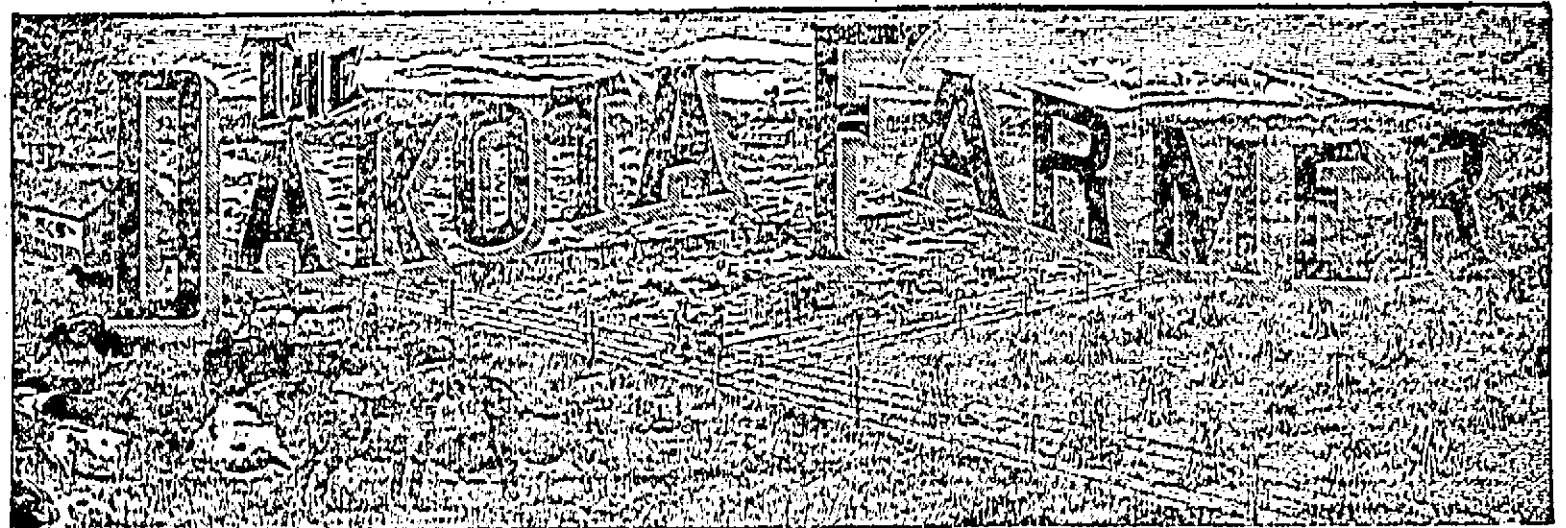

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Ewing Waterson, son of Col. Henry Waterson of Louisville, Ky., who shot and injured Michael Martin in his saloon at Saugerties last summer, interposed a defense of insanity when arraigned in the county court. A commission to determine his sanity will be appointed by Judge Cantino.

Scored Heavily.

AMERICAN FIGHTERS OFFERED ATTRACTIVE SUMS FOR MATCHES IN ENGLAND. Milwaukee, Wis.—Hugh McIntosh, the Australian light promoter, has selected Messier of this city as special representative to arrange for a party of American fighters to invade England this winter. Attractive purses have been offered to various pugilists, as follows: Kauffman, $15,000 for five fights, or 20 per cent of the receipts; Puckey McFarland, $5,000 for two fights, or a 30 per cent share; Klaus of Pittsburgh is offered $5,000 for three fights or 25 per cent of the receipts, and Ad. Volpert is offered $3,000 for each contest, with the option of a 30 per cent share in the receipts. Kauffman may meet Johnson under this agreement.

New Home of The Dakota Farmer, Aberdeen, South Dakota

The Dakota Farmer remains a semi-monthly, dated the 1st and 15th of each month. The Dakota Farmer remains independent, edited, managed and printed in Dakota by Dakotans for the farmers of Dakota and the neighboring states. The Dakota Farmer remains an exclusively south-western institution, the greatest single publishing power in the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming. The Dakota Farmer is not to be merged with any other publications, nor is its name, territory, location or editorial management changed. The Dakota Farmer's advertising policy which has made it so phenomenally successful will, like that of the Phelps Publishing Company, be even broader, more liberal and further reaching than heretofore. The Dakota Farmer will continue to have at heart the welfare and interest of its intelligent and wealthy subscribers and the success of its revenue advertisers. The Dakota Farmer is inaugurating new plans for the further development and settlement of that great undeveloped empire which is the northwest. The Dakota Farmer's advertising management and representation will be stronger, more helpful, complete. Dakota Farmer's subscription and advertising rates remain the same, except for minor details.

A local institution, yet broader and more powerful for the good of the northwest—the Dakota, Montana and Wyoming in particular.

REACHING OVER THREE MILLION RURAL BUYERS
Thus the two most powerful and influential semi-monthly farm papers in all America will be in future operated in harmonious co-operation. Farm and Home with 500,000 circulation, every issue reaching 90% of all the postoffices in the country, and The Dakota Farmer with 60,000 circulation, in the agricultural stronghold of the great Dakota Empire and adjoining states.

FLIES FROM BIRMINGHAM

AVIATOR ELY REACHES LAND SAFELY IN TRIP FROM CRUISER'S DECK.

FIRST FLIGHT OF ITS KIND

Airman Crosses Chesapeake Bay in Curtiss Biplane Having Broken Propeller—Fest Marks New Epoch in Development of Aeronautics.

Fort Monroe, Va., Nov. 15.—Aerial navigation proved that it is a factor which must be dealt with in the naval tactics of the world's future, if the successful flight made by Eugene B. Ely in a Curtiss biplane from the deck of the cruiser Birmingham can be taken as a criterion. From Hampton roads, the scene 45 years ago of naval other epoch in the history of naval warfare, when an ironclad proved its superiority over the former type of fighting vessel, the aviator flew across the lower end of Chesapeake bay, landing on the shore opposite from this fort.

Ely's trip nearly ended in disaster, however, for when his machine cleared the cruiser's deck it dipped so that one wing struck the water. The shock broke a propeller blade, but Ely succeeded in getting clear and continued his flight.

Lands at Water's Edge. The crippled condition of his biplane made a long trip impossible and the aviator headed for the nearest point of land, Willoughby Spit, a narrow, sandy point reaching out into Chesapeake bay. He alighted on the beach only a few feet above the water line.

Ely started his daring attempt when the Birmingham was in Chesapeake Bay about twelve miles from the Norfolk navy yard, which was his objective point.

Start is Made at 3:17. At 3:30 the engine of the "Hindah Flier" was started and the biplane found to be in excellent condition. At a few minutes after three Ely climbed into the aviator's seat and at 3:17 started his flight. Then came the accident which nearly put an end to the flight. The engine followed the course of the aeroplane, and when Ely landed on the beach a boat was sent ashore to assist him, as it was thought he might be injured. After leaving his machine Ely returned on board the Birmingham, and it was announced that no further flight would be attempted until the machine was repaired.

NAPOLEON IS WEDDED IN ITALY.

Pretender to French Throne is Married to Belgian Princess.

Turin, Italy, Nov. 15.—The marriage of Prince Victor Napoleon Bonaparte, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel and pretender to the throne of France, and Princess Clementine, daughter of the late King Leopold of Belgium, which has been looked forward to with so much interest, was celebrated at Moncalieri, a village picturesquely situated on a hill a few miles from here.

The ceremony took place in the royal castle erected in the fifteenth century, to which Princess Clotilde, sister of King Humbert and mother of Prince Victor Napoleon, retired after the overthrow of the French empire.

REPORT ON WALSH'S PARDON.

Sims and Judge Anderson Submit Their Recommendations.

Washington, Nov. 15.—United States District Attorney Sims of Chicago and Judge Anderson of Indianapolis, Ind., have made recommendations to the department of justice on the application for pardon made by John R. Walsh, the banker, now in Leavenworth penitentiary. Judge Anderson was the trial judge and Sims the prosecuting attorney. The substance of their recommendation is secret, but it will be necessary for them to amplify their recommendation before Walsh's petition can be placed before Attorney General Wickham or President Taft.

Oklahoma Dairyman in Session.

Enid, Okla., Nov. 15.—The address of President J. E. Nisley of Guthrie and a talk on cow testing and herd records by Helmer Robb of the department of agriculture were the features of the opening session of the convention of the Oklahoma Dairy men's association today. The attendance is large and a number of interesting contests will be held.

Texas Engineers Vote on Strike.

Denton, Tex., Nov. 15.—Several hundred railroad engineers, with headquarters in this city, are voting whether or there shall be a strike involving sixty-one lines. Questions of a wage increase of 7 per cent, and changes in working conditions are at issue.

Boy Buried by Playmate.

New York, Nov. 15.—Thrown into a bonfire by a playmate after his clothes had been saturated with kerosene, Flore Barnard, twelve years old, is at the point of death in a New York hospital. Philip Becker, fifteen years old, is under arrest.

White Horse of Kilburn.

The biggest artificial horse in the world is the famous White Horse of Kilburn, near Thirsk, which was formed by a native of Kilburn 50 years ago, who cut away the turf in the correct form and then covered it with limestone—the whole occupying some two acres of the side of the hill. The figure makes a conspicuous landmark for over 20 miles round.

FIGHT WILL WIN—ROOSEVELT.

Triumph Certain "Irrespective of Personal Success," He Says.

New York, Nov. 15.—Theodore Roosevelt has broken the silence into which he plunged himself after the Democratic landslide last week. In the current issue of the Outlook the colonel remarks that the fight in which he engaged in the last election is not to be dropped. Says the colonel, under the caption, "Mr. Roosevelt's Position": "On every hand, personally and by correspondence, I have been asked to make a statement regarding the election. So far as I am concerned I have nothing whatever to add to or take away from the declaration of principles which I have made in the Ostrawton speech and elsewhere east and west, during the past three months. The fight for progressive popular government has merely begun and will certainly go on to a triumphant conclusion in spite of initial checks and irrespective of the personal success or failure of individual leaders."

ARTIST LA FARGE SUCCEUMBS.

Foremost U. S. Painter is Dead After Long Illness.

New York, Nov. 15.—John La Farge, artist and man of letters, died at Butler hospital, Providence, R. I., after a long illness.

John La Farge was born in New York March 31, 1835. After a period of book and magazine illustrating he gave his attention to mural paintings of religious and ecclesiastical subjects.

Many years ago he invented new methods for making stained glass windows which reformed the art of the glass stainer.

PRICES OF MEAT DECLINING.

Chicago, Kansas City and Boston Report Decrease in Beef and Pork.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The prices of beef and pork are falling, not only here but throughout the country.

Within the last week the price of beef has been reduced between four and five cents a pound by the meat packers.

The price of pork has declined about 3 1/2 cents from the price of 18 and 24 cents a week ago, and it is the expectation of the wholesale meat dealers that mutton, veal, and other products of the packing houses will take a downward turn within the next few days.

The decrease in prices is not confined to Chicago, although the movement started here last week, but now it is spreading all over the country, and Boston and Kansas City reported that beef had taken a tumble of nearly five cents, while pork had gone off from two to three cents.

SEEK TO REGULATE TRAFFIC.

National Association of Railway Commissioners Assemble at Capital.

Washington, Nov. 15.—More effective and comprehensive legislation by the various states for the regulation of all interstate railroads and railway traffic is a subject that was taken up for consideration today when the National Association of Railway Commissioners met in this city in annual convention at the capitol. Practically every state in the union is represented.

A committee headed by Ira H. Mills of Minnesota, embracing commissioners from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and about a dozen other states, has had under consideration one of the most important topics that the convention will consider. It relates to the adoption of uniform laws by the various states in regulating "within state railroads." The committee's recommendations, it is thought, will go a long way in assisting the interstate commerce commission in its work of supervising railway control.

THOMAS MCCOY IS EXONERATED.

Coroner Says Munk, Football Player, Met Death by Accident.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 15.—The inquest held by Coroner Rogers into the cause of the death of Capt. Rudolph Munk of the West Virginia university eleven during the game here Saturday with the Bethany college team resulted in a verdict by the jury that Munk came to his death accidentally. The warrant for the arrest of Thomas McCoy of Canton, O., the Bethany player charged with inflicting the injuries that caused Munk's death, will be withdrawn at the instance of the coroner.

TRIBUTE TO CHERRY VICTIMS.

Memorial Services Are Held at Place Where Disaster Occurred.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 15.—In commemoration of the awful catastrophe of the afternoon of November 13, 1909, when more than 200 miners lost their lives, appropriate memorial services were held here.

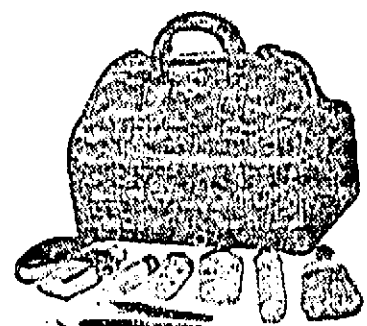

Practically every mine in the vicinity closed operations for the day and several thousand miners, besides officials, were present to assist in honoring the many who perished. Nearly every business house in Cherry closed its doors.

JAILER'S SLAYER IS KILLED.

Kentucky Sheriff Shoots and Kills Jake Noble, Desperado.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 15.—Jake Noble of Jackson, who shot and killed Jailer J. Wesley Turner of that city last Tuesday night, was himself shot and instantly killed by the sheriff of Knott county. The sheriff and deputy approached Noble to place him under arrest, when he drew a revolver, but the sheriff shot him down before he could fire. Noble was a desperate man, and had killed four men.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR BUSINESS MEN

A fitted hat bag—what man doesn't long for one? There is no risk to be run for a woman buying one of these traveling necessities if she goes to a reliable shop—no such risk as in purchasing cigars, neckties and the like. The hat bag pictured in this English patent leather and is sheep lined and fitted with ebony military brushes, comb and whisk, book, file and scissors, flask and toothbrush tube, tooth powder bottle, soap box and cologne flask, with three nickel tops. Fitted it costs $25 and unfitted $19. Cheaper bags are, of course, to be had that answer the same purpose, but they are not nearly so good looking.

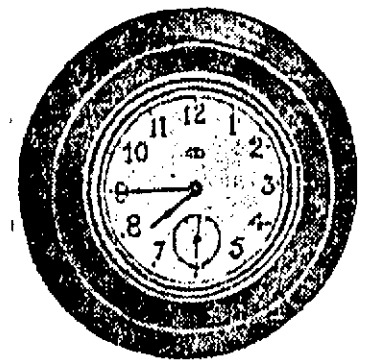

Cannon to Hold Cigars. The woman in search of a useful Christmas gift for husband or brother need not ponder further if the man to be pleased is a smoker.

Some attractive articles in brass answer the question for her. One of these represents a mortar mounted on a gun carriage. It is eight inches in length, six in height, and by means of the sturdy wheels can be conveniently moved around the table where several are enjoying the fragrant weed together. The mouth of the cannon is designed to hold cigars, while elsewhere are attached match safe and ash receiver.

Another new arrival worth describing is a well made brass box for cigars or cigarettes, according to the size of the box selected. There is a drawer in the bottom divided off into compartments for matches, etc. This is mechanically connected with the lid, so that when the former is raised the latter slides out of itself, closing mechanically too. In the cigar size this box costs $10. A smaller one, for cigarettes, sells at $5.

Gift For the Newspaper Man.

For the news editor or for the business man whose time is divided into an allotted space nothing could possibly be more practical and at the same time more attractive in appearance than a desk clock and paperweight. This little clock comes either framed

DESK CLOCK AND PAPERWEIGHT. In gun metal for $4.25 or in silver at the same price. The diameter is three and one-eighth inches.

Comfort For the Weary Man.

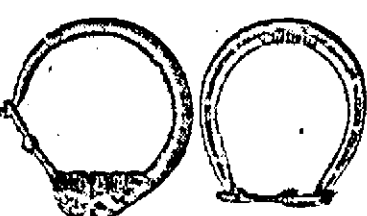

When the business man gets home at night after a hard day's work the first thing he wants is a good dinner, the next a good cigar, and probably the third move will be toward the couch for forty winks before he is wide awake enough to hear about the cook who, etc., and the children's naughty ways, etc. So give him a cushion for his weary head to rest upon. Stenciled designs on tapestry, linen or leather are much admired. There should be no fussiness about a man's cushion, and don't make it at home, for the shops are full of attractive cushions that are as cheap as any woman can make.

For the Average Man.

If the lawyer of the family needs a new brief case get him one for Christmas. Shaving stands are fine presents for men who shave themselves. Handy bill folds may be bought from 50 cents up. Riding crops for the man who rides horseback, playing cards or some odd design or a cribbage board are all fine things to give the masculine sex. Silk slumber robes or bathrobes make useful presents, and a half dozen initial handkerchiefs with the new slim drop letters are not to be overlooked.

The Latest Key Rings.

Key rings are not new gifts, but there are some new designs this year that are extremely swaggy. The horseshoe pattern will appeal to the man with sporty tastes. The loop on the "whip" fastens over one end of the horseshoe, making a clever device. The elephant key ring is very new. It has a hinged loop, which goes over the end of the "runk."

SMART KEY RINGS.

Comfort.

A woman's idea of solid comfort is wearing something loose and no dishes to wash. —Galveston Daily News.

The Hall Bedroom Habit

If Sarah Corbridge had been asked to recall the time when she had not resided in a hall bedroom she would have had to look far back into the years. Before she reached that stage of existence there had been a childhood of two rooms for the family and a corner mattress for Sarah. When she was fifteen she became a nurse girl and then she attained the dignity of the department store and the hall bedroom.

The hall bedroom had seemed to her a marvelous apartment when she first entered it and shut the door behind her and felt that it was all hers. That delightful sense of ownership never again was quite equalled in her life.

She walked over and pulled down the cracked window shade with the torn hem to shut out the world further and smiled at the dim gaslight that concealed the soiled spots on the wallpaper. Then she touched the threadbare spread on the cot with a hand almost reverent. There were besides a small walnut chair and a washstand with a mirror hung over it and six hooks on the back of the door.

Each morning she heated water in a tin cup over the gas jet and made tea. Coffee she did not dare make, for its fragrance would have revealed her crime to the prowling landlady. She had a piece of bread with the tea. Her lunch she got downtown at a 15-cent eating place and at night she carried home a couple of bananas, made more tea and had bread and butter and dried beef.

She never quite lost the feeling of luxury in having her own gas jet to get her meals on during all the succeeding years. Time and the mutations of the world occasionally changed her address, but the room remained the same in all practical points. When people built houses with hall bedrooms there must have been just one architect, who made all the plans, for they are all alike.

If Sarah Corbridge had been a pretty girl doubtless fate would have made her the wife of the floorwalker or of the friendly clerk who bought his necktie at the next counter, but she was just ordinarily plain and preternaturally serious. Neither by beauty nor by good spirits did she attract. A singular lack of vanity kept her from missing too much the frills and furbelows which she passed in the store.

Sarah was a steady, faithful, old reliable, and the girls at her counter gave her a halting sort of affection for her recognized virtues. None of them precisely loved her. You never could imagine anyone getting up any kind of violent emotion over Sarah. The other girls told her about their troubles at home and asked her what shade to buy for a new dress, but they never whispered to her in corners over what young men had said to them. She was left out of all that.

Sarah grew to be thirty, and then surprisingly soon she was forty, and she was still in the department store. There had been for her 22 years of making tea over the gas jet and getting down to work on time and doubling in her fingers so the holes in the tips of her little gloves would not show. Then a lawyer hunted her up with the information that her mother's oldest brother in an eastern state had died and left his money to her.

It was not a big fortune, but it spelled millions to Sarah. She was like a child to whom had been doted out one piece of candy a week and who suddenly has a whole ten-pound box thrust into its hands.

In a daze who kept on working, till slowly she formulated plans for her future. She rented a six-room flat and furnished it.

She did it haltingly, breathlessly and all by herself. None of the girls in the store knew what had happened to her. She forgot nothing in the furnishings of her flat. Somehow she had absorbed in long years of glancing in at show windows a sense of the fitness of things, so she picked out surprisingly correct furniture. The little living room had a piano and art lamps and pretty chairs and fair pictures and even a stiff row of books. The dining room had a golden-oak table with six chairs and a sideboard with half a dozen silver knives and forks and a whole dozen spoons in the drawer. She furnished the rest of the flat as completely and then she moved in.

It was like wandering through a thousand-room palace to Sarah Corbridge and she felt dizzy. She was tasting affluence—she felt the subtle influence of her surroundings. It was all hers!

She walked back and forth through the flat till she was tired and then she remembered that she was hungry. She went out past the dining room and the pantry with its shelves showing a full set of china; into the kitchen with its gas range and pots and pans. A little uncertainty she looked at the modest array of groceries on the shelves and then mechanically she reached for a new tin pint cup.

She lit the burner above the sink and then held the cup over it till the water boiled. She made tea and ate some crackers with it, after which she turned out the gas and went into her little bedroom. After shutting the door on the rest of the flat she lit one light and sat down to mend stockings. Outside in the darkness the piano and the books and the art lamps waited, and the dining room set stood stiffly in its loneliness, but Sarah, behind her closed door, had forgotten them.

Few Comets Return.

There are only eleven periodic comets of which the return has been observed.

California's Double. Victoria has often been compared with California, and, indeed, is almost a duplicate in nearly every respect of that state, the Murray Valley, which contains the bulk of the irrigable country, being remarkably similar to the Sacramento valley.

Colleges for Girls. Both at Bonn and at Breslau new colleges for girls have been opened, offering a six years' course after graduation from the high school.

Tea in London in 1658. That excellent, and by all physicians approved China drink, called by the Chinese tea, by other nations tay allin tee, is sold at the Sultaness Head Cophee house, in Sweeting's Rents, by the Royal Exchange, London.—Old London Newspaper.

Says the Misogynist. A woman whose tongue can be trusted is as rare as are the fairies.—15th change.

A Practical Youngster. "Why do you think your baby is such a clever child?" "Because," answered the sensible woman, "he just laughs and plays and has a good time instead of thinking up smart sayings for us to repeat to the neighbors."

Grudging Praise. "Did the critics say anything favorable about your performance of Hamlet?" "Yes," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "They admitted that I had selected a pretty good play."

Lord Loveland Discovers America

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

NOTHING romantic about being a waiter. But Lord Loveland, a delightful young Englishman, comes to America seeking a bride with money and has to become a waiter. He is tossed by the four winds in a series of hardships that brings the real man to the surface. He is a lovable, manly man and he falls in love—the real thing.

BANK CLOSED; CASHIER IS ILL.

Alleged Shortage of $10,000 Found in Brunswick (Md.) Institution.
Brunswick, Md., Nov. 15.—A shortage of $10,000, it is alleged, was revealed by an examination of the books of the Savings Bank of Brunswick. The bank was ordered closed by State Bank Commissioner J. D. Downs. William Schumacher, cashier, is said to be under the care of physicians.

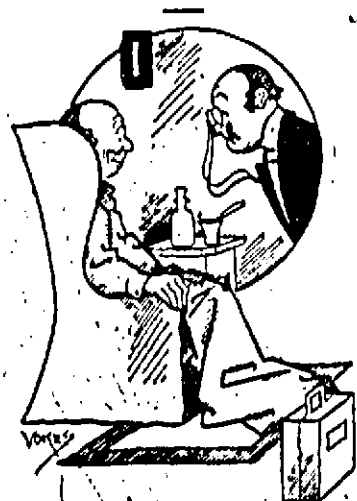

Texas Industrial Congress.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 15.—The Texas Industrial congress, which opened here today, has brought to the city a large number of men of state and national prominence, and delegates from all kinds of organizations throughout Texas. The program deals largely with questions of agriculture and stock raising, and farmers especially have been invited. R. J. Kleberg of Kingsville is president of the congress, which was permanently organized last April.

The Reason.

Mrs. Diplo—My husband and I never dispute before our children. When trouble comes we send them out.

MATRIMONIAL MUSIC.

Jack—Is his married life one grand, sweet song?

Fred—No, it's a "plaintive" melody just now. He's the defendant in divorce proceedings.

Mixed as to Names.

A young woman, who has a trench-cous memory for names, had a droll experience not long ago. She had encountered in a railway station a face that seemed familiar to her. She remembered that she had met the young man at the house of a friend some weeks before, but for the life of her she could not at all recollect his name. Finally, however, when the young man stopped to shake hands, she asked:

"Surely this is Mr. Tombstone, whom I met at Mrs. Walker's."

The stranger smiled. "You're right as to our place of meeting," said he, "but somewhat twisted as to the name—I am Mr. Stonewall."

Irony Lost Case for Lawyer.

In his early days at the bar the late Lord Bowen prosecuted a prisoner who had been caught in a house at night crawling downstairs with his boots off and carrying portable property. The evidence was so overwhelming that Bowen ventured to indulge in a little irony and remarked on the thoughtfulness of the prisoner in removing his shoes, thus disturbing nobody, and in selecting only solid silver articles from the plate basket, so that the family had enough forks and spoons left for breakfast. The jury was so impressed by these extenuating circumstances that it acquitted the prisoner. Bowen never employed irony again when addressing a jury.

Wrinkles Come With Age.

Wrinkles of all sorts increase the degradation of beauty. A healthy child has no wrinkles. Observe how a grown person's forehead wrinkles up when he is giving attention or thinking hard. A child's forehead remains quite smooth in the same circumstances.

Whence Come Miracles.

Whatever you desire, that shall you have—and in the right time. But you must not seek to dictate to the avenue by which that good shall come, lest you indeed limit your good. But make the demand, persistently, regularly, firmly. That is the way miracles are born.

The Price of Riches.

"If I knew a miser who gave up every kind of comfortable living, all the pleasure of doing good to others, all the esteem of his fellow citizens and the joys of benevolent friendship for the sake of accumulating wealth, Poor man, said I, you pay too much for your whistle."—Benjamin Franklin.

Cork Known in Ancient Times.

Cork was known to the Greeks and Romans, and was put to almost as many uses as at present, although there is no mention in Roman annals of linoleum, notwithstanding its Roman sound. Glass bottles with cork stoppers did not come into use until the middle of the fourteenth century.

FINDS A MUMMIFIED QUEEN

Chance Discovery in Palestine of Body of Woman Wearing Crown and Rich Ornaments.London.—The chance discovery near ancient Gaza, in Palestine, of a mummy containing the embalmed body of a woman wearing a crown and rich ornaments is like an Arabian Nights tale. The discovery was made by a man named Musa-el-Burtu while digging on his land, and this is a translation of the account of it sent from Jerusalem by Professor Macalister to the Palestine Exploration Fund:"When Musa went to his land and was working and digging in it he found a little door. He entered by it into a cave divided into two chambers, and entering through the second door
he found a coffin of hard wood."And he opened it, and in the coffin was another of crystal. And he broke this, and inside it he found one of the old queens adorned with: precious stones and on her neck a necklace of pearls and three chains beaded on her breast, and above her head was a candlestick of gold and another at her feet."Another account from Mr. Knes-ovich, of Gaza, says that the sarcophagus was of pure white marble and was strongly protected by a vault of huge stones built over it. The lid of the sarcophagus was artistically carved in the exact form of the mummy, which was in excellent preservation.The hair was loose and the head bound with a fillet, the form of which suggested that the mummy was Roman, but the shoes were Egyptian. No inscription was on the sarcophagus,
but a book is said to have been found in it.

Horse Size of Dog.

New York.—The skeleton of a horse, which must have been about the size of a modern fox terrier and had four toes, has been found in Wyoming by an exploring party sent by the American Museum of Natural History. The museum authorities have just received the news. The skeleton represents the oldest ancestor of the horse of today ever found and resembled a hippopotamus and a tapir as much as it did a horse.FERRET CONTRACT VETOED BY MAYORHOLDS TERMS OBSCURE AND UN-FAVORABLE TO CITY.

AGAINST PUBLIC POLICY

Whole Matter Made a Special Order of Business for Adjourned Meeting to Be Held Next Monday.At the common council meeting last evening Mayor Curle returned, unsigned, the proposed contract with Workman & Higgs, tax experts, for furnishing evidence whereby certain foreign credits now escaping taxation may be placed upon the tax roll and the proper tribute collected on a 3 1/2 per cent commission basis. He holds that the city, unless it secures the cooperation of state and county, will only get one-third of the money under such an arrangement; that the terms of the proposed contract are vague, obscure, and contradictory on several important points; that the work is all within the province and duty of the assessors; and that the whole scheme is against public policy.On motion of Alderman Buchholz the whole matter was made a special order of business for an adjourned meeting of the council to be held next Monday night. Mr. Workman of the firm of Workman & Higgs was present at the meeting but was not given an opportunity to be heard.The text of the mayor's communication to the council is as follows:Why His Honor Objects.
To the Common Council of the City of Janesville.
Gentlemen: At your last regular meeting held October 31st, 1910, Alderman Duffin of the Judiciary committee moved that the report and recommendation of the city attorney, together with the proposed contract between Workman & Higgs and the city of Janesville, in regard to omitted personal property be accepted and that the mayor and city clerk sign said contract on the part of the city of Janesville, Wisconsin. Motion adopted by a vote of 4 to 2.Under chapter 4 of the city charter, the mayor and aldermen constitute the common council, and as such have various powers set forth in that chapter, among others, is the care, maintenance and control of the finance of the city. Under section 2 of chapter 3, every ordinance, resolution or by-law mentioned in said chapter 4 is to be presented to the mayor for his signature. If he approves he shall sign and return it to the city clerk; if not, he shall return it with his objections to the common council at the next stated meeting.After giving the matter such consideration, I have decided to disapprove that part of said motion which accepts the contract with Workman & Higgs and therefore do not approve of the resolution or proposed contract with Workman & Higgs, and herewith return the contract to you without my signature and with my objections thereon.County and State Involved.
First: Under our system of collection of taxes the City of Janesville collects not only for itself, but for the county of Rock and state of Wisconsin. The city of Janesville has no power or authority to contract away any portion of any tax going to the county or state and it is an unsettled question whether the city has any authority to contract any part of the tax going to itself.Our city attorney has rendered his opinion in this, but other city attorneys in this state have decided the opposite way.The point may be made that the contract in question provides for the payment of a sum of money equal to one third of the money collected, and therefore is not the tax itself that is being paid. This, however, does not meet the fact. In round numbers the city tax amounts to one and two-tenths cents as against the state and county sixteenths; or in other words,
of every dollar tax collected the city of Janesville gets about two-thirds and the state and county one-third.
If the city of Janesville made the contract in question it would be compelled to pay the state and county one-third, and would only have one-third itself, so that out of every three dollars collected the city of Janesvillewould have but one dollar. If there are any unpaid taxes, the city of Janesville is entitled to two dollars out of every three dollars collected and should pay over to the state and county one dollar. If the city of Janesville is to enter into a contract of this kind, it should be joined by the state of Wisconsin and county of Rock, so that each should pay its proportionate share of the expense.Obscure Points in Contract.
Second: The proposed contract provides that it shall run for three years from its date and also has a provision: "and to include the years prior to its expiration." I must confess I do not understand the meaning of this provision nor its effect.Third: The proposed contract provides for the payment of an amount equal to one-third of the taxes collected, on which evidence is furnished which is found beyond the jurisdiction of the local assessors. There is no such place where the city of Janesville can collect taxes. If taxes are collectible at all, it must be within the jurisdiction of the local assessors, which is the city of Janesville. It is claimed that certain residents of the city have loaned money outside of the city and outside of the state. That would not make any difference with the jurisdiction of the local assessors.Power of Assessors Ample.
Fourth: In order to collect taxes,
it is necessary to use the machinery of the city of Janesville and that machinery can only be used by our board of assessors and our city attorney, and without further compensation from the city Workman & Higgs have no authority or power whatsoever, in and of themselves, and cannot do anything except that they do so through the city attorney and board of assessor. If all they can do is through these officers, then surely these officers possess the same power and authority without any contract with Workman & Higgs, and it is their duty as such officers to collect any taxes which are due the city from any source whatsoever. The power of the assessors is explicit and ample, and needs no outside assistance whatever."But One Year."
Fifth: The proposed contract provides that Workman & Higgs shall not ask for the assessment of any property not legally taxable, which has been omitted from assessment and taxation, on which evidence is found beyond the jurisdiction of the local assessors, and that the said assessor of property shall not be subject to this agreement but once. If taxes are assessable for three years back and the contract provides that it shall run for three years from date of same,
that would make six years of taxes.
The fact that requested taxes whatever that may mean is subject to this agreement but once makes it subject for the six years' term. It apparently was so intended, or else the parties would have contracted that the property should be subject to the agreement for only one year's tax.A Continuing Provision.
Sixth: I find that for the services so rendered by Workman & Higgs the consideration reads as follows: "In consideration thereof the party of the second part hereby agrees to and with the parties of the first part to pay to said parties of the first part a sum of money equal to 3 1/2 per cent of all taxes collected upon the evidence found, and reported by them, and assessed by the said party of the second part by its proper officer or officers, at the time when said taxes shall have been collected, and an itemized claim, showing the names of those assessed,
the amount of property, the amount of taxes thereon, and the amount paid into the city treasury, shall have been filed with the city clerk." On the face of it, this is a continuing provision, so that any property of which they furnish the evidence and on which the city collects taxes in the future, would be subject to this agreement, and over the three-year period would not apply, because the city might in four, five and even ten years collect a sum of tax upon property discovered and reported by Workman & Higgs, and under that provision the city would be compelled to pay over one-third of the amount to Workman & Higgs, and under that provision the city would be compelled to pay over one-third of the amount to Workman & Higgs for the future.Contract Terms Too Vague.
Seventh: As Mayor, I cannot sign this proposed contract, one that is subject to so many different constructions. To sign any contract I must know, for just what your Workman & Higgs are to report, for just whatyears the 3 1/2 per cent commission is to be paid, and when the payment of that 3 1/2 per cent will end. If we are to pay 3 1/2 per cent for all taxes collected from their report, the state and county must pay its proportionate share, and before entering into any contract we must have an agreement with the proper officers of the state and county to that effect.Every citizen should pay his just and equal proportion of taxes and the machinery of the city, under the laws of the state, is ample to compel all persons to do so. I am heartily in favor of any movement which will compel all to pay their just proportion, but as I have stated before, we have within ourselves full power and authority to that end, and that it can be exercised as fully and completely as can be done by any outsiders. I consider this proposition a detriment to the general welfare of the city, I see no occasion for the city to pay one-third of the taxes that may be collected, as proposed by this contract.
If this money is collectible by the City of Janesville, the city needs the money itself, all of it, and the local officers can accomplish more and the city get larger net results than can be accomplished by this contract.Against Public Policy.
While I have offered the foregoing objections to the proposed contract, I also take the broader ground that in my judgment the whole scheme is against public policy and against the better interests of the city of Janesville and would be detrimental to it in the present and in the future, and I therefore disapprove of the plan.

Respectfully submitted,

HAVE BUMPER CROPSSub-stations of the University College of Agriculture, Demonstrate Possibilities in North.Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—That forty bushels of ripe shelled corn and ten tons of silage corn can be grown on a single acre in northern Wisconsin is shown by reports from the sub-stations of the College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin located near Ashland, Superior and Iron River.
These fields were grown under ideal cultivation without any attempt at record breaking yields.One plot of red flint spring wheat averaged twenty-eight bushels to the acre, and at Superior forty-eight and one-half bushels of oats to the acre were averaged from twenty-six different varieties. At the same place a yield of eighteen tons of corn silage to the acre was recorded, while barley averaged thirty bushels to the acre.Over six hundred bushels of rutabagas to the acre was yielded at Ashland, while at Superior eight hundred bushels of rutabagas were yielded from one acre, and at Superior three hundred and four bushels.

No Free Seeds.

Free distribution to the farmers of Wisconsin of selected seed of high quality will no longer be practiced by the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. For several years past the college has sent the best grade of Connecticut-Blue-top bacco seed to any farmer asking for it free of charge. Now the department feels the improvement of the Wisconsin tobacco crop has been pushed to a point where the farmers themselves will try to keep the seed standard up to a high level. The funds will therefore be used to improve high quality varieties of tobacco at the experimental station in Madison. When the new varieties are well established seed will be disseminated.

A Country Life club has just been organized by the students in the College of Agriculture of the University

new organization will be to study ing conditions in the country. Rural ness organizations, cooperative societies are well established and will be some of the subjects taken up at different meetings.The officers of the club are:—C. H.

County Sugar company is at its height and the plant is being worked to its full capacity to handle the influx of raw material which is pouring in from the farms in the vicinity. Many loads are being brought in wagons, but the greater part of the amount received is shipped in cars, of which there have been over a hundred, billed for the sugar factory in the local yards. The force employed by the company in shoveling the beets was found to be insufficient for the volume of work to be done and two gangs of foreigners, forty in all, have been imported from Milwaukee, to shovel. The first gang of twenty eight arrived Friday and another crew of twelve from the Cream City came here last night.

Fountain of Youth.

Does polar exploration keep one young? A writer says: "Sir Ernest Shackleton looks a mere youngster who might be in his football prime.
Captain Scott, who is due at the south pole next year, is extraordinarily youthful in appearance. But Commander Peary is easily first in the race for juvenility. He is fifty-four, as the years go, and he has spent 20
in supplying and mining his way to the north pole, but today he might very well pass for forty-three—not only in the dusk, but in the daylight."

Carrying Power
With YouIn locating a new plant or changing the location of the old, power facilities must always be taken into consideration. That is provided, of course, you do not use electricity.If you use electric power you need not give the subject any anxious thought, for you can carry electric power with you wherever you go. With electricity the crowded down town district and the open suburbs are one and the same, so far as power goes. It induces many people to move to the outskirts.We can supply you with all the power you need for any purpose, and you will have to pay only for the power you actually use. Our lines can be extended if they do not reach your locality, and you can have exactly the same sort of service at the edge of town where rent is cheap, as you can next door to our plant, and that means the highest order of service.

The Girl Who Lives Alone

whether she attends college or goes to business, needs the Perfection Oil Heater. It will heat a cold, cheerless boarding house or dormitory room and make it livable. It is always a ready help in the many things women do for themselves in their rooms. With the damper top opened it will heat water for tea or cocoa; it will dry the small articles that a woman prefers to wash herself in her own room. It will quickly heat an iron or curling tongs; quickly dry wet shoes or skirts—an ever ready help for the woman who lives alone, dependent on her own resources. The

PERFECTION
SMOKELESS
OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

Is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. It will burn nine hours with one filling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless; has a cool handle and a damper top. An indicator shows the amount of oil in the font. The filter-cap is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain. It has an automatic locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so the wick can be quickly cleaned.

The burner body of gallery cannot become wedged, and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

His ironic calm gave Roland pause. For a moment he lost his bearings and stammered in confusion. "I come in to tell you that you and your apt to have trouble," he concluded.

"Oh? And are you thinking of starting it?"

"You bet I'll start it, and I'll start it quick if you don't leave Jostie Lockwood alone."

"So that's the trouble, is it?" commented Nat thoughtfully.

"Yes, that's the trouble. From now on I want you to let her alone, and you'll do it, too, if you know what's best for you."

A suggestion of menace in his manner, unconnected with any hint of physical correction, caught Nat's attention. He frowned over it.

"Just what do you mean by this line of talk?" he inquired blandly, stopping nearer.

"I'll tell you what I mean." Roland clinched both fists and thrust his chin out pugnaclously. "I'd been a-goin' steady with Jostie Lockwood for more'n a year before you come here and thought that on account of her money you could sneak in and cut me out."

"Was her money the reason you were after her, Jostie?"

"What?" The question brought Roland momentarily up in the wind. "I ain't none of your business if it was," he snapped, recovering. "But here's what I'm gettin' at." He tapped his breast pocket with a sneer of bacillo triumph. "Just about ten months ago," he continued meaningly, "they was a cashier skipped out of the Longacre National bank in New York, and they ain't got no trace of him yet."

So this was why Roland had been so assiduous a student of the back files in the Citizen's office.

"Indeed?"

"Yes, indeed. I had my suspicions all along, but didn't say nothin', but just today I got a description of him, and the description just fits, Mr. Mortimer Henry."

"Just fits Mr. Mortimer Henry? But what has that?"

"Ah, don't you try to seem too darn' innocent," Roland snarled. "You can't fool me!"

A light dawned upon Nat, and laughter gouted his being, although outwardly he remained unperturbed—merely mildly curious. But his fingers were itching.

"So you think I'm the absconding cashier, eh, Jostie?"

"You keep away from Jostie 'r you'll find out what I think." Nat's placidly deceived Roland, who drew the wholly erroneous conclusion that he had succeeded in frightening his rival, and consequently dared a few lengths further in his trade. "Why, if I was to go to Mr. Lockwood and tell him you're Mortimer Henry, alias Nat Duncun?"

"That will do," Jostie. "That will be all for this evening, thanks."

"Are you going to quit chasing after Jostie?"

"I'll begin chasing after you if you don't keep away from Jostie 'r you'll find out what I think."

don't clear out or here." "You better agree!" Just there the storm burst. Ten seconds later Roland, with a confused impression of having been kicked by a mule, picked himself up out of the dust in the middle of the street and stared stupidly back at the store.

"Here's your hat, Jostie," called Nat, tossing him the hat, Nat turned contemptuously.

He paused in the middle of the store and felt of his necktie. It proved to be a little out of place, but otherwise he was as immaculate as was his wont. He reviewed the encounter and laughed quietly.

"There's no cure for a fool," he mused.

The telephone bell roused him from his reverie. He went over to the instrument, and down and put the receiver to his ear.

"Hello!" he said. "Oh, hello, Jostie! What's that? That's right, but I'm not used to it yet, you know. Well, I'll try again. Now—ready?"

He schooled his voice to a key of heartrending sentiment. "Hello, darling. How's that? Told your father? Told him what? Oh, about the engagement? Was he angry? Oh, he wasn't, eh? What did he say? Wasn't that nice of him?"

Conscious of a slight noise in the store, he looked up. A young woman had just entered. She paused just inside the door, smiling at him a little timidly.

Without another word to his fiancée Nat put down the telephone and hooked up the receiver.

"Betty!" he cried wonderingly.

CHAPTER XXI.
BENEATH the brim of her dainty hat, with veil thrown back, Betty's dark hair waved back, glossy with the sheen of perfect well being, from a face serenely charming, the more so for her slightly deepened flush, and the eyes that shone into Nat's danced with the light of enjoyment, bred of his supreme astonishment.

Her father, who had left Kellogg and come in to get Nat's advice regarding some large orders received that day, greeted her warmly, gave her a parting hug and retired.

"Nat, I'm so glad to see you again!" "It's such a surprise, Betty!" "I knew it would be. I just couldn't wait, Nat, when I found I could get here by the night train instead of tomorrow morning. I haven't been home, you know, but I couldn't resist the temptation to stop in here and see what the store looked like after all these months. Besides, I thought that you or father—" Her eyes fell, and she faltered, withdrawing her hands.

By now he had himself in hand. "Why," he laughed, "you nearly took my breath away. Even now I can hardly believe it."

"Believe what, Nat?" she asked quickly.

"That you're the same little Betty Graham. I never saw such a change!" "It's a change for the better, isn't it, Nat?" she asked, with a smile half wistful.

"I should think it was. It's just marvelous."

"Did I seem so very awful, then?" "Nonsense. You know you didn't only now."

"Then you think father will be pleased?"

"If he isn't I'm blind."

She looked away, embarrassed and touched by his interest and his feeling. "And does it make you a little proud, Nat?"

"Proud?" he exclaimed blankly.

"Because you know you've done it all. If there's any improvement in Betty Graham today it's because of you. If it hadn't been for you—"

She shook her head very decidedly seating herself on one of the chairs by the soda fountain. "Why, Nat, don't you suppose I have any memory?" she went on. "You began making me a better girl the very first day we met here in the store by the things you said to me. And ever since I've been watching you while you were making life a heaven for father and me and thinking that if I were a man I'd try to be as near like you as I could."

"Oh, don't say that!" he pleaded wretchedly.

"It's true. And when you sent me away to school I promised myself I'd try to repay you for the sacrifice you must be making for me; that I'd follow your example as nearly as ever I could."

"That's right," he said insouciantly; "that was the idea."

"Nat, what do you mean?"

"He turned to her. "Betty, does it make you feel that way toward me?"

"She colored deeply. "Why, Nat, of course. Why, every one!"

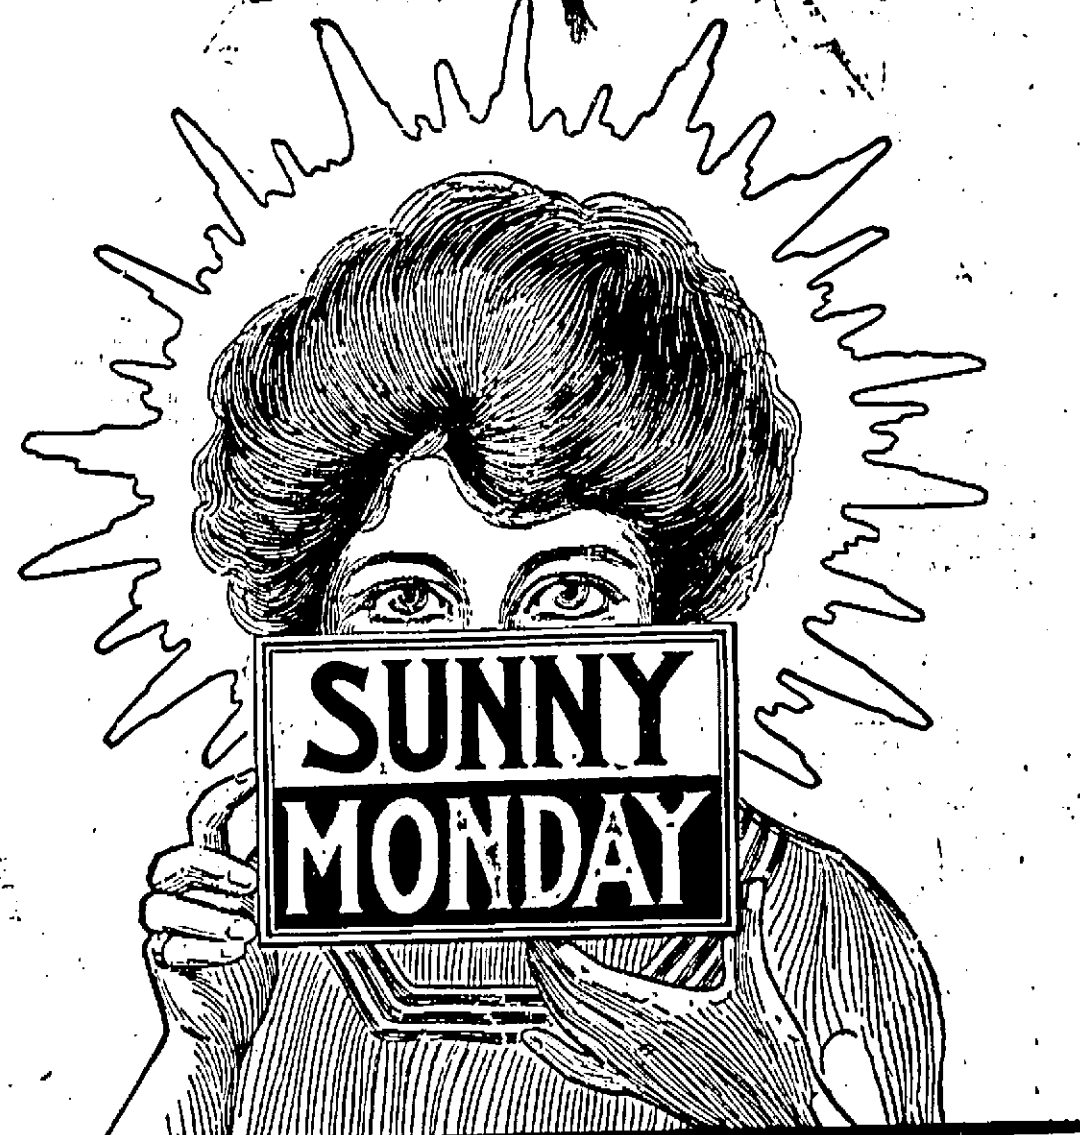

"That's why I came here, Betty," he pursued, blind to her embarrassment. "I came here with the idea of getting married."

He was staring gloomily at the floor and could not see the light that dawned upon the girl's face.

"You never guessed that, did you?" "No," she breathed brokenly. "No, Nat, I—"

"Well, it's the truth, and—" He rose and moved away. "But I can't tell you just now—now."

STARTS DIRT LIKE MAGIC

because it contains a dirt-starting ingredient which loosens the dirt quickly, cleanses the fabric with little rubbing, and washes your clothes clean without washing them out.

Because of this dirt-starting feature, Sunny Monday Laundry Soap will save your time and spare your back.

Washes in any Kind of Water

Hot or cold, hard or soft, luke-warm or boiling waters all look alike to Sunny Monday, and it will do equally good work in each. Moreover, it does not waste away like a rosin soap, and its dirt-starting ingredients remain to the last wafer of the cake.

If you're an economical woman—if you're particular about the appearance of your clothes—you should ask your grocer for Sunny Monday and give it a good honest trial.

FORMER EDUCATION OF GIRLS

Glance at the Methods of Sixty Years Ago Shows Great Advance of Present.

When one realizes the state of female education sixty years ago, its progress as evidenced today is marvellous indeed.

In the first half of the Nineteenth Century, the policy of "sewing," rather than of "belong," was followed throughout—language and society manners were considered all important—there were no games and the only form of exercise was that of walking, with riding for the wealthy girls.

The schools were small and suffered from bad classification in consequence, as classes had to be made up from girls of widely differing ages, while "teaching" consisted of hearing lessons "rot by heart," often without any explanation.

"When one reads the report of an examiner of a girls' school only 30 years ago, that 'many girls showed a great aptitude for mathematics, but parents discouraged continuance of sound education after the age of 12 or 13 in order to keep the girl feminine,' the change in the popular estimation of women's capacity is indeed marvellous.—Christian Science Monitor.

Awful English Pun.

ORIGIN OF "YANKEE DOODLE"

Tune is Believed to Have Pertained to a Country Dance in a German Province.

Theories concerning the origin of the air of "Yankee Doodle" have been almost as numerous as those touching the birthplace of Homer.

One of the most interesting and, it is thought, the latest speculation in this regard comes from Germany. It is contended that the tune originally pertained to a country dance of the district of the former province of Kur-Hesse, that it was called the "Schwalm," and that the air was also played as a military march by bands of Hessian troops during the war of the Revolution.

In studying the dances of the "Schwalm," the German authorities were struck by their similarity in form and rhythm to "Yankee Doodle." It is assumed that, as many of the Hessians who served in America were recruited in this district, they carried "Yankee Doodle" with them.

Yet, while this theory may be correct as to the melody, it does not convincingly explain its introduction into America; for the air was played here long before the Hessian troops came. Mention of it appears in a newspaper bearing date of September, 1768, and it is traditionally supposed to have been brought to the attention of the colonial army in 1755, when Dr. Schuchburgh, a surgeon in the regular British army, recommended it to the colonials as "one of the most celebrated airs of martial music."—The Sunday Magazine.

RAYMOND ROBINS.
Life Devoted to Improving Labor Conditions.

Chicago, Ill.—A comparatively young man, of whom the world is to hear more, is Raymond Robins. He has devoted his life to the improvement of conditions among the poor, and especially among the laboring class. As a young man he began the practice of law in San Francisco, but later migrated to Alaska, where he took up gold mining first and reform later. He found the conditions in Alaska so lacking in the essentials of civilization that he at once started to do his share toward reforming the degenerates around him. He began preaching the gospel, baptizing converts, burying the dead, and his influence had much to do in shaping the early life of Alaska and making it a better place than it had been before his coming.

Later Mr. Robins returned to the United States, settling in Chicago as his permanent home. Here he took up settlement work as the head of the Municipal lodging house and other philanthropic institutions. He is now devoting himself to the interests of organized labor.

HANDS CRACKED AND PEELED

Tried Many Remedies but Grew Worse—Impossible to Do Housework—Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"About six years ago my hands began to crack and peel. I tried many remedies, but they were all the time. At last they became so sore that it was impossible for me to do my housework. I put my hands in water I was in agony; if I tried to cook, the heat caused intense pain. I consulted a doctor, but without relief to me of the skin disease since, I shall be glad if you will publish this case, that others may know of Cuticura."

Mrs. Minnie Drew, 23 Danforth St., Jamaica Plain, Mass., April 20, 1910. For thirty years Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have afforded speedy relief to tens of thousands of skin-tormented and disfigured sufferers from eczema, rashes, itching, irritations and chaffings, from infancy to age, bringing comfort and peace to distressed households when all else failed.

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the civilized world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Proprietors, Boston. 25-cent bottles, 12-cent Cuticura Soap. "Show to Care for and Treat the Skin and Nails."

could that I'd work hard and try to treat people the way you do—kindly, Nat, and considerately and bravely and tenderly and honestly!"

He dropped into a chair near her and buried his head in his hands. "Don't!" he begged huskily. "Please, Betty, don't!"

She bent forward and took one of his hands, patting it softly. "Nat, I think you're the very best man in the whole world!"

"Don't!" he groaned. "Don't, for heaven's sake!"

"Oh, I know, Nat—I know you don't like me to say this, but I must, just the same, tell you the truth about myself. It's so splendid to live the life you do. You're all unconscious of it, but I want you to realize it and know that I do too. You've made everybody love you, and—"

But confusion silenced her, and she gently replaced his hand. For several moments neither spoke. Then Nat broke the tension with a short, hard laugh.

"That's right," he said insouciantly; "that was the idea."

"Nat, what do you mean?"

One May Overcome
constipation permanently by proper personal co-operation with the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, when required. The forming of regular habits is most important and while endeavoring to form them the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is most valuable, as it is the only laxative which acts without disturbing the natural functions and without debilitating and it is the one laxative which leaves the internal organs in a naturally healthy condition, thereby really aiding one in that way. To get its beneficial effects, buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is never classed by the well-informed with medicines which make extravagant and unfounded claims to cure habitual constipation without personal co-operation.

First Printed Book.
The first book printed with type, according to Pettigrew, with the Latin Bible, published by John Gutenberg, at Layence, about 1455; but Haydn is inclined to assign a somewhat later date to this, by making the book of Palms, by Faust and Scheffer, printed on August 14, 1457, the first book.
